

EMIS training for locum nurses

EMIS is the leading IT supplier in the primary healthcare market, covering about 56% of general practices nationally. The EMIS clinical systems provide clinical, administrative and management functions to all practice staff, in support of current and future NHS strategies.

Working with locum nurse agencies and practice nurses, EMIS has devised a training seminar which will ensure that delegates have foundation knowledge of using the EMIS clinical system during consultations.

Why is locum training needed?

Locum nurses have always played an important role in general practice. Under the nGMS contract, practice nurses are required to raise the standard of patient data quality and are looking to locum nurses to support them in this task. Training provides the essential skills a locum nurse needs to complete an electronic patient record.

What training is available?

The training is in seminar format and will provide delegates with the basic knowledge they need to use the EMIS system during a consultation, including an overview of:

- n Introduction to EMIS
- n System navigation
- n Patient summary information
- n Data entry and coding, including templates
- n Prescribing
- n Appointments
- n Consultation Mode
- n Hands-on time and accreditation

Delegates will receive a hints and tips sheet on using EMIS in the consulting room, and a certificate of attendance.

The maximum number of delegates invited to a seminar will be 15, at a delegate rate of £75+VAT for a half-day session, including refreshments.

How do I book training?

EMIS will collate training requests, find venue(s) in different areas according to demand, and then book the place(s) you have requested at your nearest venue and notify you of the details.

Please contact EMIS Field Operations Support on 0845 123 4455 if you would like to book a place on a seminar, or if your organisation would like to work with EMIS to provide a seminar in a specific location.

Every effort is made to ensure that your EMIS documentation is up to date, but our commitment to constantly improve our software and systems means that there may have been changes since this document was produced.
